What is an apprenticeship?

An Apprenticeship is a focused learning programme designed to assist Apprentices to gain new skills, enhance their knowledge and develop appropriate work-related behaviours which, ultimately, can lead to a rewarding career.

It includes on-the-job training so the Apprentice can gain valuable work experience and practice a range of skills. It will also involve off-the-job training where the Apprentice will attend specific workshops which will be informative and interactive providing them with knowledge and practical skills.

Apprentices are assessed in the workplace against the standards agreed by the industry. There are different levels available which can help a range of individuals from those new to employment as well as existing employees.

Below is a summary of the qualification levels that Wandsworth Lifelong Learning offer:

Level 5 (Foundation Degree equivalent)

Higher Apprenticeship aimed at Apprentices who are operational and can complete complex activities. This will include supervisory and management level.

Level 4 (Foundation Degree equivalent)

Higher Apprenticeship aimed at Apprentices who are operational and can complete complex activities. May include supervisory level.

Level 3 (A Level equivalent)

Advanced Apprenticeship aimed Apprentices who are operational and can complete complex activities. May include supervisory level.

Level 2 (GCSE equivalent)

Intermediate Apprenticeship for those Apprentices in an operational role.

Benefits of an apprenticeship

There are numerous benefits when employing an Apprentice or deciding to enrol existing team members on to the scheme.

Key benefits include:

Highly motivated team

New Apprentices are eager to show their desire to learn and develop within an organisation. As they grow in confidence, they can make a real contribution to improving productivity and becoming efficient and loyal team members.

Clear succession plans

Apprenticeship programmes can give your workforce vital skills that will help Apprentices develop into more senior roles or fill positions that are critical for business growth.

Enhanced skills

Existing team members might wish to progress into other roles within the organisation but are not yet equipped with the skills to do so. For those who have recently been promoted, there will be a need to develop. Apprenticeships can provide development opportunities which will result in a competent and confident team member.

Social impact

Employing an Apprentice provides people with a tailored training and development opportunity that can lead to a rewarding career and make a real difference to their lives. It will also raise the community profile of your business through demonstrating social responsibility and helping to tackle unemployment in the local area.

If you are considering employing an Apprentice or wish to enrol an existing team member onto the scheme, they need to meet the following eligibility criteria:

- Must be 16 or over
- Must have lived or worked in the EU for the last three years
- Must not be in full-time education or enrolled on any other funded course

Apprenticeship Levy

Since 6 April 2017, all UK employers with an annual pay bill of over £3 million will be required to pay a levy to invest in Apprenticeships. This investment ensures that people have access to on-the-job training opportunities without having to attend an educational establishment. It can also make a notable impact on staff satisfaction and motivation as Apprentices are eager to learn and make a real contribution to improving productivity and efficiency.

All employers will be eligible to receive a £1,000 incentive payment for each 16-18-year-old Apprentice. Payment will be made to employers by the training provider in two equal instalments at 3 and 12 months. This incentive also applies to 19-24-year olds who have previously been in care or who have a local authority education, health and care plan.

Levy paying companies will gain access to the Government's Digital Account system. This is a service that enables employers to pay for their Apprentice's training using their Levy funds and will also allow employers to search for training providers.

It is important to note that Levy funds cannot be used for Apprentice wages, travel and managerial costs.

Initial Assessment

Potential Apprentices complete an application form to determine if they are eligible for funding. Once accepted, a detailed learning assessment will be carried out to gauge their skill level so that the appropriate programme can be designed.

Delivery

The delivery of training is a joint enterprise between the employer and Lifelong Learning. Most of an Apprentice's time will be spent on on-the-job training which will teach them the skills, knowledge, and competencies needed to perform a specific job within the workplace, while undertaking that role.

During the programme the Apprentice will be also required to spend 20% of their time undertaking other learning activities described as off-the-job training. This training is learning which is undertaken outside of the normal day-to-day working environment. Off-the-job-training must be directly relevant to the Apprenticeship framework and may include the following.

- Workshops
- Shadowing colleagues to learn new skills
- Work mentoring and coaching
- Coursework
- Attendance at workshops and staff development events
- Online research and learning

There are certain activities that cannot be assigned to off-the-job training and these include:

- Coursework completed outside of working hours.
- Progress reviews
- Assessment
- Functional skills, English and mathematics workshops

A tutor will be responsible for monitoring and recording learning hours and will undertake bi-monthly reviews. Employers will be given access to the ePortfolio system which will provide details on progress, assessments completed and tasks set so that an Apprentice's development can be easily tracked.

The employer's responsibility is to ensure that Apprentices receive the training that will develop their knowledge, skills and behaviours to a degree that will help them to function as an efficient and productive team member. Lifelong Learning will provide additional tuition, mentoring and assessment that will support the employer's commitment to developing the Apprentice.

If an Apprentice has not previously achieved an A*-C in GCSE English and maths, they must work towards either Level 2 Functional Skills or the GCSEs. For some Apprenticeships, they may only need to achieve Level 1. Functional Skills form a key part of Apprenticeships, providing individuals with the skills to complete their qualification.

End-point assessment

End-point assessment. It's a term you're probably hearing a lot right now if you're involved in training and development or work for a business that must pay into the Apprenticeship levy.

What is end-point assessment?

End-point assessment (EPA) is the way in which Apprentices are assessed at the end of their programme. Previously, Apprentices were continuously assessed throughout their learning. With EPA, it means that Apprentices now have their work and competence assessed at the end of their learning against 'Apprenticeship Standards' established by groups of employers, educators and sector organisations known as 'Apprenticeship Trailblazers'.

The EPA will only commence once the employer, Apprentice and on-programme trainer are confident that the Apprentice has developed all the knowledge, skills and behaviours defined in the Apprenticeship standards and is clearly evidenced by the on-programme progression review meetings and records. The independent end assessment ensures that all Apprentices consistently achieve the industry set professional standard and it can commence at any point once the Apprentice is competent after a 12-month minimum period of learning and development. Prior to the independent end assessment, the functional skills English and maths components of the Apprenticeship must be successfully completed.

All Apprentices must undertake an independent end point assessment.

Summary of Independent End-Point Assessment process

The Apprentice will be assessed to the Apprenticeship standard using a variety of complementary assessment methods. The assessment is synoptic, i.e. takes a view of the overall performance of the Apprentice in their job. The assessment activities will be completed and may include:

- An on-demand test
- A practical observation
- A professional discussion
- A presentation or work-based project
- A competency-based interview
- An assessment of a portfolio of evidence.

Thank you so much for your help on the course. I have learnt so much, it has opened my eyes and I hope to learn a lot more.

Just want to say a massive thank you to you both for

- Putting up with me.
- Helping with all my work
- Getting me through the hard times.
- Supporting me
- Believing in me

Thank you so much for being such a kind, understanding and most of all a brilliant tutor! I can't wait to start on the next Module/Level in September.

I have found the workshops really useful and have learnt a lot while doing our training.

Our team members really enjoyed the course and were excited to implement some of the techniques they learnt. They said the facilitator was wonderful and really spent time trying to understand the challenges they might face in the call centre, this made the course very relevant to them.

The course delivered what it intended to and it was well attended. I have taken some great ideas and activities which I'll implement with my team.

Just wanted to say a massive "THANK YOU". You have had such a huge impact on my life – you will never know but thank you for giving me back my life.
